Description

JAEGER LECOULTRE ladies' watch from the 1950s in steel. Although it is designed in the image of a classic timepiece, mounted on leather, its reduced size makes it a true jewel in itself, ultra feminine. Its round case is subtly formed of two superimposed gadroons. Its dial creates a concentric effect, by the addition of a "railroad" and indexes arranged in a sunburst. These elements, coupled with its small size, directly refer to the Art Deco aesthetic, as do its blued hands. Its dial has a superb patinated color, silver, warm and luminous at the same time. The case is framed by two rollers, which are discreet under the leather, but give body to the watch and feminize it. They allow the case to be left free and preserve its round and refined aesthetic. Here we recognize a recurring structure at Jaeger

LeCoultre, which is also found in the form of arches, also very sought after. In order to design this watch in its format, the Jaeger LeCoultre manufacturer equipped it with the legendary Duoplan movement, arranged on two levels. This movement is of the mechanical type with manual winding. In addition, in order to preserve the refined aesthetics of this watch, its winder has been placed underneath, making it invisible when worn. Duly signed and numbered, its proper functioning is guaranteed by us for one year (except in the event of shock or immersion). Model: DUOPLAN Year: 1950 Movement: mechanical with manual winding Anchor escapement Dial: original, mixed index and Arabic numerals Strap: gray/celadon green lizard leather (new), on pumps Buckle: pin, metal (replaced) Glass: plexiglass (replaced) Possibility of payment entirely remotely via the site.
