Description

Antique Copper Relic of Saint GisleneSaint Gislene, also known as the Apostle of Hainaut, was a Frankish hermit who lived in a forest in Hainaut, Belgium, in the 7th century. Saint Gislene enjoyed a great reputation for holiness, which attracted many followers and led him to found an abbey in Hainaut, near Mons, Belgium, later known as the Abbey of Saint Ghislain. The life of Saint Gislene is a powerful example of selflessness, humility, and devotion to God. His teachings and spiritual direction continue to inspire and encourage those who wish to follow in his footsteps, making him a beloved figure in the Catholic tradition. The entire piece is in good condition. The relic itself appears to have become detached and is lying on its side. A wire on the back is damaged. Dimensions: 5.9 cm high 4.5
