Description

Do we hold our destinies in our hands? This is what this contemporary sculpture, circa 2015, by Willy and Franck Pinna, representing a nervous hand holding a star, might suggest... William and Franck Pinna are two brothers from Toulouse, self-taught sculptors. With different sensibilities, each expresses in their own way their attraction to volumes and materials. Franck uses the mixed technique of vitro-composite, while Willy favors the mastery of bronze for his small or monumental works. These are often unique and many of them are exhibited in public places on the outskirts of Toulouse. The smaller creations are published in only 8 copies + 4 artist's proofs. Bronze hand, resin and glass star, steel base; signed and numbered on the reverse. Excellent condition. Height = 29.5 cm; Width = 21 cm;
