Description

Free shipping for mainland France via La Poste or Mondial Relay*Rare pot-bellied BOTTLE with four loops, in stoneware with pastille and incised floral motifs with gray and manganese glaze on a coarse blue background, decorated on both sides with complex coats of arms surrounded by a mention probably relating to a corporation of grinders. Height: 23.5 cm. WESTERWALD, early 18th century. First observation as far as I am concerned of this atypical bottle. The collar of the neck has been restored over about a third of its surface. The interior is partly weighted with plaster and cracks are indicated by yellow arrows in the photographs. Nevertheless, this is a very rare form in the production of German stoneware which is composed for a very large part of
