Description

Terrestrial globe with its brass meridian mounted on its original tripod base with compass in the center. The globe is signed "ERD GLOBUS H. KIEPERT BERLIN 1870". Equatorial table with all the signs of the Zodiac. Note: - The cartography of this globe is historically very interesting because Germany was not yet a unified country in 1870. The German territory was divided into many independent states: Kingdom of Prussia, Kingdom of Bavaria, Kingdom of Saxony, Duchies, principalities, etc. These states formed the German Confederation, then the North German Confederation. It was not until 1871, after the Franco-Prussian War, that the German Empire (the Second Reich) was founded under the leadership of Wilhelm I. This globe dated 1870 therefore still shows the old political
