Description

Flexible bracelet composed of two parts: links with floral motifs of generally round shape, richly worked with petals, set with rose-cut diamonds, the centers of which are adorned with a crowned rose-cut diamond in a setting characteristic of the period links with foliage motifs, more extensive, and openwork, also set with rose-cut diamonds and similarly adorned in their center with a diamond articulated between them, and resulting in a general cuff format. Dating from the Belle Epoque, end of the 19th century / beginning of the 20th, the base of the bracelet is made of 750/°° yellow gold (18 KT, owl hallmark) while the upper part set with diamonds is in silver (swan hallmark), which gives this jewel a very soft, subtle general color and gives it a beautiful relief. The overall theme being floral, the rosettes
