Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Description

Well-matched German pair of blanc-de-chine figures in the KPM-school tradition, circa 1880: a youth with pole and baskets and a young woman with grapes, each on a rocaille base. Hard-paste porcelain; heavy castings; applied vine leaves and bead-grapes; tree-trunk prop to the boy. The modelling reflects courtly Rococo types interpreted by late-19th-century workshops, with characteristic softened leaf cuts and rounded grape clusters. Underside glazed with central vents; a sketchy underglaze cobalt stroke appears on the boy's base. Collectibility: matched blanc-de-chine harvesters are a sought-after category
