Round terracotta dish, Berber work from Kabylie from the late 19th to early 20th century. A tab on the edge for gripping. Scalloped edge inside a brown glaze. This work of art, both abstract and primitive, imposes on its own the sublime simplicity of a primitive design, almost parietal decoration. The modernist fish are of great sophistication. The material, red earth from Kabylie sublimated with an ivory and brown glaze. Wear and traces on the edges. Very good condition of discovery. Beautiful and authentic object. In very heavy red earth under the ivory glaze.
