Rejecting all forms of abstract art and Impressionism, Buffet plunged into the broad black strokes and vivid colors of Expressionism, composing figures, clowns, animals, nudes, landscapes, interiors, still lifes, flowers and religious paintings. He painted all over the world. He was particularly devoted to Japan, where a museum is entirely dedicated to him, so much so that his own ashes were scattered there. In spite of his death, his considerable output still makes him an active artist and a presence in our imagination. Museums: Clermont-Ferrand, Higashino, Saint-Rémy-de-Provence, Vatican. Exhibitions: New York, Chicago, Palm Beach (Florida), Montreal, Vancouver, Tokyo, Osaka, Johannesburg, London, Amsterdam, Brussels, Berlin, Warsaw, Basel, Zurich, Geneva, Rome, Venice, Milan, Madrid, Paris, Lyon, Toulon,...
