Description

Tall Pair of 19th Century Brass Barley Twist CandlesticksThis impressive pair of late 19th-century Victorian brass candlesticks features elegant openwork spiral stems, (known as barley twist) mounted on heavy, dished circular bases. Crafted in England around 1880, these candlesticks are a testament to the superb craftsmanship of the period and remain in original, untouched, and unblemished condition.The barley twist motif, inspired by the twisting stalks of barley, was a hallmark of Victorian decorative arts. This open twist design not only adds a sense of lightness and dynamic movement but also showcases the artisan's skill. Made from solid brass, these candlesticks offer both durability and a rich golden patina that has developed beautifully with age.Both candlesticks
