Description

LC6 Dining Table - Le Corbusier for Cassina An icon of modern design created in 1928 by the Franco-Swiss designer Le Corbusier, produced by Cassina in Italy. This model combines a tempered glass top and a lacquered steel structure with profiled "airplane wing" legs, reflecting the industrial and rational aesthetic of the modernist movement. Each piece is signed and numbered, guaranteeing its authenticity. The LC collection, of which this table is a part, is internationally renowned and is among the most emblematic pieces of 20th-century furniture. The glass top is in good condition, as is the base. There are micro scratches on the black lacquer.
