

This 8-panel Chinese Coromandel Lacquer Screen Uses The Kuncai Technique

3 800 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Width : 288

Height : 180

Depth : 1,5

Description

This 8-panel Chinese Coromandel lacquer screen uses the Kuncai technique, which is engraved and decorated. The decoration, of great quality and craftsmanship, is different on both sides. The first side depicts a court scene. Specifically, it features figures in traditional dress engaged in various activities, suggesting a scene of court life. It also features traditional Chinese architecture, structures similar to those found in gardens or palaces, and natural elements such as trees, flowers, and rocks, creating an idyllic landscape. The opposite side features a naturalistic depiction of herons and birds, according to the characteristic patterns of oriental Chinese art. Finally, both decorations are surrounded by a border of traditional Chinese symbols, often associated with the concepts of luck, longevity,

Dealer

Cose del Passato

Antiquités, Restauration

Tel : 0039 3389512441

Mobile : 0039 3389512441

via Giolitti 11

Torino 10123

and prosperity. Dimensions: Length fully open:
288 cm. The panels are 36 cm wide x 8 panels =
288 cm. Height: 180 cm.