Description

Important carved and molded walnut bench from the Louis XV period. The front crossbar is decorated with delicate fretwork and carved with four-lobed flowers. The back crossbar is straight. The four legs end in shells. This long seat can be displayed against a wall or in the middle of a room. The upholstery of our bench is in excellent condition. It is covered with an elegant jacquard fabric. A very beautiful seat from the mid-18th century with a healthy and stable structure. Beautiful thicknesses of wood (the thickness of the front crossbar is 4 cm)
