Description

Modern Leather Armchair 1940s This armchair presents an intriguing mix of materials and styles: a solid wood frame with angular lines, sturdy armrests and a seat and backrest covered in studded leather. This combination evokes the spirit of vintage design of the 1940s, often born at the crossroads of industrial and craftsmanship. This model recalls certain Danish or French post-war modernist armchairs, where the emphasis is on the visible structure, raw materials and a clean but expressive design. Its details - exposed upholstery nails, metal slats, assumed carbon of the patinated leather - tend towards a resolutely industrial aesthetic, of straight and robust lines, while maintaining a subtle elegance. Ideal for a vintage or contemporary interior looking for a strong piece. Discover all our other
