Description

Charming children's rocking horse made of wood and hand-painted, dating from the early 20th century. The horse, mounted on a curved wooden base, retains much of its original polychrome decoration, with lovely signs of wear that attest to its authenticity and age.Naïve in style, it depicts a galloping horse with saddle and harness painted in blue, yellow and red tones. The aged patina and craquelure in the paint add great antique charm.A highly decorative and evocative piece, ideal as a collector's item or as a vintage decorative accent for country or shabby chic interiors.Condition: Good overall condition consistent with age and use; visible wear and small paint losses, adding to the charm of this antique piece.
