Description

Porcelain biscuit statue representing Saint Joseph, recognizable by his attributes - the flowered staff and the carpenter's square. He is standing on a rockery base. Old production from the mid-19th century around 1850-60. In the Catholic religion, Saint Joseph is the adoptive father of the Child Jesus and the protector of the family. Beautiful centerpiece to place on a chest of drawers or fireplace. It is a piece decorated from all angles, intended to be viewed from all sides, for example with its back to a mirror. Very good general condition, no accidents or losses. Height: 28cm
