Description

Beautiful white porcelain cup decorated with gold patterns and matt French blue with palmette motif. The beautiful openwork cup in the shape of a shuttle, with at its base an elegant pattern of waves of blue palmettes with highlights of gold lines, it rests on a rectangular base decorated in relief with an angel's head and developed with palmettes, the whole resting in the mass on robust gilded claw feet, the top of the entablature in the same blue as the frieze of the cup, itself assembled to the base by two threaded rods and original nuts. This remarkable piece from the First Empire period is in good condition and very decorative. On the other hand, it is attributed to Jacob-Petit Paris from where it has all the recognizable quality
