The ancestral lime laying process has protected these tiles, carefully dismantled by our team. We can offer an increase in this surface area of 5 to 10 m² by considering the installation of a peripheral rail around these octagons forming a carpet. This rail or contour/periphery can be composed of 16 cm x 16 cm square tiles of the same origin or other patterns, as desired. A smooth tile made of one or more rows depending on the configuration of the room to be covered and the additional footage to be added. Installation is simple. Simply leave a 5 to 6 cm space*to anchor these tiles in a soft lime screed laid (drawn - is the actual term) on the support slab. This lime screed allows for damage-free repairs or subsequent work. These tiles were laid with lime, which allowed us to carefully dismantle them without breakage. We strongly recommend lime as a binder for the screed. A natural product, lime is an excellent thermal and sound insulator. Furthermore, tiles fixed with lime are easily dismantled in all cases. Cement, or worse! cement glue, should be avoided! We really don't think it's wise to rely on the god "Concrete"! These petroleum-based products are polluting, conduct sound and potential moisture, and are not durable over time. A hot water heating system can be advantageously installed on the substrate and embedded in the screed. Perfect comfort guaranteed! And no more unsightly radiators... We deliver our antique terracotta floors with Installation Instructions based on 30 years of experience. Adhering to these instructions will ensure the patina of three centuries of use is preserved. If necessary, we will assist you with your installation. We can offer the services of skilled tilers experienced in this delicate task. We will not separate this lot, which is sold in its entirety. A rare surface that deserves to be re-laid in one piece. Our usual carrier will provide a delivery quote upon request, including your postal code. Reservation*: Space to be maintained between the surface level and the finished level, once tiles have been laid.
