Description

Elegant 19th century Louis XVI style demilune commode, finely crafted in marquetry and adorned with a richly colored breccia marble top. This refined piece beautifully reflects the neoclassical inspiration of the late 18th century while displaying the superior craftsmanship of the 19th century. The curved façade features intricate floral and ribbon marquetry, executed in a harmonious combination of light and dark woods. The central panel presents a delicate basket of flowers framed by a ribbon motif, bordered by geometric stringing in contrasting tones. The upper frieze drawer is decorated with inlaid garlands, and the two curved doors open to a shelved interior providing ample storage. Bronze ormolu mounts accentuate the corners and legs, adding a touch of brilliance to the design. The
