23rd infantry regiment, in Besançon. Knight of the Military Order of Saint-Louis (January 1823). Decoration of the Lily (1817). Officer of the Order of the Legion of Honor (March 15, 1814). Former captain of the grenadiers of the Departmental Legion of Loire-Inférieure. THE PAINTER: Isidore PÉAN DU PAVILLON, born in 1790 in Rennes and died on June 13, 1856 in Paris, is a French painter. A student of Jacques-Louis David, he exhibited at the Salon from 1814 to 1844. He married Laure Lay (1801-1869). Their son Isidore Joseph Félix Pineau du Pavillon was a house painter and their daughter Marie Emma Pineau du Pavillon was a printer. He died in Paris at the age of 66. He was buried in the Montparnasse cemetery on June 15, 1856. HISTORY: In 1820, a royal ordinance of Louis XVIII reorganized the corps of the French army by transforming the departmental legions into line infantry regiments. Thus, the 23rd Line Infantry Regiment was formed in Bayonne with the 3 battalions of the Loire-Inférieure Legion. The 23rd Line Infantry Regiment fought in the 1823 campaign in the 1st Corps of the Spanish Army. In 1830, attached to the Army of Africa, it was part of the expeditionary force against the Regency of Algiers and took part in the campaigns of 1830 and 1831, distinguishing itself in the siege and capture of Algiers from June 30 to July 5, 1830, in the battle and capture of Blida and in the battle of the Mouzaïa Pass, in November of the same year.
