

Drawing In 1899 By Maurice Orange In Good Condition

400 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Paper

Width : 22 cm

Height : 31 cm

Description

Period watercolor. In good condition, little stained and original from the artist, it is handmade, it is not a print ... From a family home where there was governor of Madagascar and close to Colonel Marchand. Drawing and watercolor on period paper ... 1899 Overall dimensions: Height: 31 cm Width: 22.7 cm Depth: 0.3 cm Maurice Henri Orange is a French painter and draftsman born on March 9, 1867 in Granville and died on February 28, 1916 in the 7th arrondissement of Paris Biography Maurice Orange spent his youth in a family setting with the war of 1870 in the background. He quickly revealed a talent for drawing and his first teachers encouraged him to enroll at the École des Beaux-Arts in Paris. A scholarship holder in 1885, he followed the courses of Jean-Léon

Dealer

Antiquités FOUGERAND

Antiquaire Généraliste

Mobile : +33 (0)673913819

14 Rue Docteur Ebrard

Bourg-en-Bresse 01000

Gérôme who detected the young man's talent. He attended the classes of François Flameng and became friends with Édouard Detaille. He specialized in history painting, particularly the Napoleonic epic. From 1887 to 1914, he participated in the Salon des Artistes Français. He received medals and travel grants. His discovery of Spain, Greece, Italy, Portugal, Africa, and especially Egypt provided him with sources of inspiration. He used all techniques: oil, watercolor, gouache, charcoal, pastel. He was a colorist in his way of treating light. Maurice Orange died of typhoid fever in Paris on February 28, 1916.