Description

LALIQUE -- "Chinon" Decanter, Paris, 1977
Molded, pressed, and cut crystal with hallmarked silver mount
An elegant "Chinon" decanter signed by Lalique, created in 1977, embodying the excellence of French craftsmanship in both crystal and silversmithing. The clear crystal body, finely molded, then pressed and cut, features a slender silhouette with clean lines, enhanced by a subtle play of facets that capture and refract light with sculptural grace. The delicately chiseled silver mount, bearing a Parisian hallmark, frames the neck with understated elegance, adding a refined metallic brilliance to the crystal's transparency. The piece reflects a perfect balance between modernity and tradition, characteristic of Lalique's late 20th-century creations. A rare and distinguished object, ideal for discerning
