Description

Terminal de vêtements chinois, Chine, Circa 1750. QING DYNASTY 1636/1912. Two dragons fly together with flamboyant pearls. The arrière-plan is filled with multicolored nuances in various shapes, or with chauves-souris symbolizing longevity. At the bottom, Mount Meru, symbol of longevity, emerges from the ocean. The decorative elements such as the cornes and the coraux enrich this magnificent broderie soie sur soie. The contemporary border is composed of very fine metal threads and threads, for a very elegant motif. Sise : 127x30 cm Condition : general wear, more important on the edges. Pièce Fragile.
