Description

Painting depicting a landscape in Ile de France near Sucy en Brie in the Marne Valley. Picturesque charm of a peaceful village. Good mastery of colors. This artist, who became an official painter of the Navy in 1973, has won several awards thanks to works focused on coastal life. This former student of the École d'Estienne in Paris from 1933 to 1937 made a name for himself in artistic circles for his characteristic style, drawing on both Cubism and the optical works of Robert and Sonia Delaunay. He is a friend of Yves Brayer and Lucien Fontanarosa, among others. He has won numerous awards, including the Grand Prix de la Ville de Paris and the Prix l'Île-de-France. Several works by Marcel Depré are now held at the Musée d'Art Moderne in Paris, the Musée
