Description

Three Women in Family, Directoire Period Portrait. Intimate Scene, Family Portrait from the Early 19th Century. Remarkable family portrait in an interior. It is an oil on canvas depicting a mother with her daughters in a Directoire interior. They are coiffed, dressed and wear jewelry in the fashion of the time. Great finesse of details, in the rendering of the maternal tenderness that emerges from the scene, the bond between the mother and her two daughters is very present even touching. The frame, the room where they are is also very well painted, the Louis XVI woodwork as well as the doors, the mirror on the right in two parts, the vase, the Directoire chairs. Even if there is a little naivety that also emerges on certain details, the atmosphere is extremely well rendered and testifies to an era. We feel the beginning of the
