Description

A charming portrait of Baroness de Lay, dated 1858, executed in oil on canvas under glass and presented in its elegant period gilt frame. This work from the 19th-century French school demonstrates the refinement and elegance of aristocratic portraits from the second half of the 19th century. The Baroness's face is delicately rendered, emphasizing the distinction of her sitter. Light restoration should be considered on the neck and forehead to preserve the integrity of the painting. A refined and decorative portrait, ideal for lovers of 19th-century French art and collections of noble portraits.
