Description

I present to you a large female bust in glazed terracotta, an exceptional piece that embodies the timeless elegance of the Italian neoclassical style. This bohemian-inspired bust gracefully evokes the allegories of the four seasons, a theme dear to art and mythology. Made between the late 19th and early 20th centuries, it demonstrates refined craftsmanship, typical of this period of transition between tradition and modernity. Its state of preservation is remarkable: the terracotta, covered with a delicate glaze, has survived the decades without major alteration, preserving the subtle details of the face and drapery. The serene and harmonious facial features reflect the neoclassical ideal of beauty, while the drapery recalls ancient sculptures, giving this work a presence that is both majestic and intimate. With an imposing
