Description
-------------

Pair of Mounted Vases Decorated with Persian Archers, Samson Manufacture, Late 19th Century
Interesting pair of porcelain cornet vases from the Samson manufacture dating from the late 19th Century. A surprising decoration with Persian archers, quite unusual, we regularly find the Chinese decoration, but the Persian decoration is rarer. These are cornet vases with polylobed porcelain necks decorated in very high relief. many details treated in high relief: the characters, the birds, the fruits and flowers as well as the handèles treated in the shape of dragons with bat wings. The whole is bursting with color and gilding, remarkable and extremely detailed work, even the inside of the necks is painted with floral motifs. The relief motifs stand out against a blue and gold background. Thèse are mounted on
