environment and cosmic anthropology lead to projects and achievements from 1967. The concept promotes the continuous relationship between the individual, nature and primitive or advanced science on the scale of the context of the environment designed or chosen in this regard. The "A des Décibels" - sound corridor that connects eighteen virgin forests of the world (1974), the Bio-acoustic Garden (1978), the work "META" (1985-1992) are examples of his research.
