Description

Antique copperplate painting depicting the Virgin Mary, Italian school, late 17th/early 18th century
-Small paint losses -Measures 12.5 cm x 9.5 cm
The painting is a devotional work, an oil on copper, depicting the Virgin Mary of Sorrows. These small copper paintings were popular for private devotion. The image shows the Virgin with her hands clasped to her chest and her gaze lowered, a common iconography for the Madonna of Sorrows. The copper surface was often prized for small devotional formats, providing a smooth and durable support for oil pigments.
