Description

A double-body sideboard in the Romagna rectory style, made of cherry and walnut, from the late 17th century.

An impressive double-body piece from the 17th century, completely intact.

The large side pilasters distinguish it, influencing the movement of the rich cornice.

The perforated bracket feet and the sliding flap with three internal drawers contribute to placing it in the world of niche furniture that has always been respected and highly appreciated.

Dimensions (cm): W 143, D 58, H 224.
