Description

Wooden canoe Cirqua 1950. The wooden and brass frame offers a sober and light line. It is completely disassembled thanks to its bars and its tubular system. There are two positions for sitting, chair position and lying down. Used initially by the Indians and the Inuit, it arrived in Canada and then in France during this period. The hull and the deck were made waterproof thanks to the sewn and removable skin. It was scraped, sanded and varnished in its entirety. Ideal for a loft, a restaurant etc. Paddle provided. Rare piece. Delivery possible not included in the price.
