Description

Oil on wood, mountain landscape
Signed lower right
Franciscovich (born in 1972 in Mendoza, Argentina) is a painter known for his luminous and meditative mountain landscapes. The son of winegrowers, he grew up facing the Andes, which he made the heart of his work. Trained in Buenos Aires, he then traveled across South America, seeking to capture the breath of the peaks. His canvases, with their blended earth and sky tones, convey the quiet strength of nature and the fragility of the human gaze. Long discreet, he first exhibited in mountain refuges before gaining recognition in Paris and Berlin. Now based near Bariloche, he paints every day facing Mount Tronador. For him, "the mountain is not a landscape, but a presence."
