Description

Carved Wood Sculpture - Cherub with Dog
Period: 19th century

Refined carved wood sculpture depicting a cherub reclining in an affectionate pose with a stick lying at his side. The work is characterized by remarkable attention to detail, both in the child's anatomy and in the expressive and dynamic rendering of the dog, which gazes lovingly at the child's face.

The composition unfolds on an irregular base reminiscent of natural rock, highlighting the contrast between the smoothness of the figures and the roughness of the support. The cherub's drapery and curls are masterfully sculpted, highlighting the craftsman's skill. The warm, dark patina of the wood enhances its antiquity and
