Description

An elegant pair of Vienna porcelain vases, circa 1880, with domed lids and rose-coloured handles. Ruby red and emerald green ground, richly gilded scrollwork and oval cartouches depicting mythological and allegorical scenes after Angelica Kauffmann (1741-1807), framed by gilt laurel wreaths; reverses decorated with gilt medallions. Under each base, a blue shield mark and gilt number '25', typical of late 19th-century Viennese productions perpetuating the imperial tradition. Angelica Kauffmann, a renowned neoclassical painter and founding member of the Royal Academy in London, was one of the most admired artists of her time; her subjects were widely reproduced on European porcelain. A decorative and finely gilded pair, combining contrasting colours with classical refinement - a
