Description

Produced in the 20th century, this oil on canvas by Alfredo Palmero de Gregorio sensitively captures the freshness of a bouquet of flowers arranged in a white vase against a delicately nuanced background of blues and greens. True to his expressive style, the artist emphasizes the vibrancy of color and the spontaneity of the pictorial gesture.The roses and carnations, in a harmony of red, pink, and white tones, stand out vividly, while the slightly blurred background accentuates the impression of depth. The frontal framing and centered composition give this still life a timeless elegance, blending academic tradition with chromatic modernity.
