Description

Elegant Chinese porcelain plate in the Chinese Imari style, dating from the late 19th century.

This style, inspired by Japanese Arita decorations, was very popular in Europe from the 18th century onwards and was adopted in China for export. The central decoration features a cobalt blue rocaille vase containing a bouquet of peonies and chrysanthemums, symbols of nobility and harmony. The composition is framed by a red-orange and blue floral frieze with geometric and plant motifs. The palette consists of the three traditional colors of Chinese Imari: o Bright orange-red o Underglaze cobalt blue o Light green and pale gold enamels (possibly)

Condition: very good general condition, some wear consistent with age, without visible cracks or chips. Origin / Creation: This piece most likely
