Description

Superb and rare linen damask tablecloth with orientalist decoration, illustrating a scene of a tiger hunt on elephant back, surrounded by palm trees, horsemen and fabulous animals. The decoration, woven with a luminous and refined relief, evokes the great damasks of the 19th century, Napoleon III period, a time when the fascination for the Orient and India inspired prestigious French manufacturers such as Charvet in Lyon or Le Jacquard Français. In the center, an antique monogram hand-embroidered in red underlines the elegance of the linen and its belonging to a mansion trousseau. The texture of the fabric, fine and shiny, suggests a linen enhanced with silk, typical of luxury productions intended for receptions. Period: Second half of the 19th century (circa 1860-1880) Probable
