Description

Elegant table clock signed Jaeger-LeCoultre, model Marina, an iconic creation of the Swiss manufacture produced during the 1950s-1960s.

This design is among the most refined decorative clocks by the brand, combining Swiss horological precision with artistic craftsmanship.

The rectangular case is composed of a black glass panel and a crystal front plate framed in gilt brass, resting on elliptical feet. The front is finely engraved and gilt, depicting a delicate naturalistic scene of birds in their nest among grasses and flowers -- a motif inspired by mid-century Japanese decorative art.

The satin-gilt dial features raised triangular hour markers and dauphine hands. The mechanical hand-wound movement is signed Jaeger-LeCoultre and marked "Swiss Made." The back shows the winding and time-setting controls typical of high-quality desk clocks of the period. The Marina model is now highly sought after by collectors for its exquisite design, fine workmanship, and rarity. This black-background version with bird and floral motifs belongs to the most decorative and desirable variants.
