Description

Beautiful virile portrait with contemporary frame -European School-Pastel technique on cardboard - frame with glass -size 80x67 painted 60x47The image shows a pastel portrait of a bald man with a full beard and white mustache, painted in the style of the 19th century. The work is described as a "male portrait" of the "European school," and the technique used is pastel on cardboard.A similar work, identified as a portrait of the artist Pyotr P. Sokolov (1821-1899), was painted by Alexander Nikolaevich Stepanov. However, it is not possible to confirm whether the subject of the image is actually Pyotr P. Sokolov. Other research indicates that similar portraits of bearded men from the 19th and early 20th centuries were sold as antiques, in a style that could be described as Napoleon III.
