Description

This 20th-century oil painting on wood in a modern style depicts a village nestled in an autumn-colored countryside, bathed in the golden light of a setting sun. On the horizon, the last rays of daylight illuminate the hills while the white houses, scattered throughout the landscape, blend harmoniously into the surrounding nature. In the foreground, bare trees create an elegant graphic pattern, reinforcing the depth of the composition. The artist, signed lower right, plays with the contrasts between the warm tones of the sky and the darker hues of the earth, creating an atmosphere that is both peaceful and nostalgic. This painting is fully in line with the aesthetics of modern art, where the structure of the landscape and the emotion it evokes take precedence over photographic detail.
