Description

Pellini Eugenio Nives Bronze figure of a little girl Early 1900s depicted standing with the finger of her left hand and her right hand resting on her chin in a thoughtful manner. She wears a little dress and has no hair. On the front of the rectangular base that supports it there is the writing NIVES relating to the name of the daughter of the sculptor, born in 1905. Eugenio Pellini (Marchirolo, November 17, 1864 - Milan, May 28, 1934) was an Italian sculptor, initially an exponent of the Scapigliatura, he later dedicated himself to more personal and intimate themes.
