Description

A charming pair of Romantic-style paintings depicting two bucolic scenes imbued with sweetness and childlike innocence. The first depicts a young boy wearing a red jacket and brown breeches, playing the flute under the watchful gaze of his small dog. The scene, bathed in soft light, evokes the simplicity and cheerfulness of country life. The second depicts a young girl seated near a fence, holding two small birdcages suspended from a pole. Her graceful expression and delicate gestures reflect the finesse of 18th-century gallant compositions. Both works, richly colored and finely executed, are presented in their original oval frames of carved and gilded wood, enhanced with a beaded border. These paintings form a harmonious decorative ensemble, perfect for a refined interior.
