Description

Walnut table lectern decorated with a shell on the bar that allows the book to be positioned. The 4 legs required great dexterity in the execution of the turning. The walnut has acquired a superb polish. Good general condition for an 18th century work. To be extremely complete, note some traces of xylophages on a base and on the ball. Missing a volute on the bar of the shell. Stain on the varnish. (close-up photos). Provincial work from the first years of the 18th century. Shipping costs to France by Colissimo with tracking: EUR40
