Description

This mahogany landing sofa, dating from the first part of the 19th century, is fully in line with the aesthetic of the Restoration, at the heart of the Romantic movement. Its squared seat and back, covered in a yellow fabric delicately decorated with small diamonds, offer a discreet and harmonious refinement. The armrests, of studied sobriety, are distinguished by their curves which soften the rigor of the structure. The front legs, finely turned, testify to the craftsmanship and attention to detail characteristic of this period. Both functional and decorative, this landing sofa illustrates the measured elegance and taste for balanced lines which marked the furniture of the Restoration.  Period: 1st part of the 19th century Excellent condition.
