Description

How can I resist sharing with you my joy at meeting this old gentleman whose father and grandfather were plumbers. They passed on their know-how, as a family, but also their tools. These, specific to their profession, consist of everything needed to restore an acceptable shape to lead downpipes. Templates, balls attached to a rope to create an easy water passage, beaters and other spinning tops. I imagine that once waxed, these tools will be able to be talked about again. There are 32 of them, tightly packed in their original trunk.
