Description

Rome, mid-19th century
Dimensions: 80 × 45 cm,
height 95 cm
Elegant pair of wall consoles carved entirely in giallo antico marble, a prized stone with warm golden hues and subtle purple veining. Each console features a shaped top supported by a powerful lion-form bracket, with a majestic head and flowing mane merging into a paw ending in claws. The balanced proportions and refined carving are characteristic of Roman production of the mid-19th century, reflecting the neoclassical taste and archaeological revival of the period.
