Description

"Interior Scene" by Pascal Blanchard (1807-1900) French School, 19th century.

Watercolor medallion in good original condition, recent restorations, signed "Pascal Blanchard".

This watercolor depicts an interior with a taste for eclecticism: a white-painted terracotta vase (circa 1800) sits alongside an Orientalist fabric, a Louis XVI mahogany side table (circa 1785), and a Louis XVIII armchair (circa 1825). The colors are bright and intense, particularly those of the ceramics and the fabric curtain. Dimensions: 22 x 15 cm (34 x 28 cm with frame). Painting in good condition, with minor restorations, under glass.

Molded giltwood medallion frame decorated with beaded friezes, in good condition. Pascal Blanchard (1807-1900), watercolorist, was an academic painter who studied at The Julian Academy. Georges Desvallières, one of his fellow students, painted portraits of close relatives and friends, such as Pascal Blanchard's wife, a famous portrait now held and exhibited at the Petit Palais Museum in Paris. Blanchard exhibited genre scenes and portraits at the Paris Salon in the 1880s. All my items for sale can be viewed in Issy-les-Moulineaux.
