Description

Portrait of a young woman, Art Deco period, circa 1930-1940, by André Dignimont. A very interesting painting with its beautiful original frame, very typical of the 1930s and 40s. The artist, as was often the case, captured the personality of the model and evoked all the charm of this elegant woman. Like his friend Jean Gabriel Domergue, he was famous for his lighthearted illustrations devoted to feminine beauty. André Dignimont was a great draftsman and watercolorist who lived in Montmartre, where he associated with Jean Gabriel Domergue, Roger de la Fresnaye, Louis Marcoussis, and numerous writers, including Colette. This remarkable work, thanks also to its frame, exudes a particular and distinctive atmosphere that would make a fine addition to any collection. Shipping
