Description

Original blown Murano glass chandelier, mid-20th century, in the Ca' Rezzonico style with a double row of arms for a total of 9 lights (6 for the lower row and 3 for the upper row). The upper arms have smaller bells and are entirely decorated with glass intertwining, flowers and leaves + pendant rings. The lower arms are made with various glass pieces set in a frame (a typical process of this style), have a larger bell and also end with a pendant. Colors: Pink and Blue. The decorative flowers are made of solid pink/blue colored glass, while the leaves are made of clear glass with a pink hue. The stem measures 95 cm high (can be further extended with a chain) and a maximum width of 80 cm. For this type of item, local collection is strongly recommended. Shipping must be agreed upon before purchase
